HOW DID THE FUND PERFORM LAST YEAR AND WHAT AFFECTED ITS PERFORMANCE?

As of August 31, 2025, the seven-day current yield for Institutional Shares of the Western Asset Institutional Government Reserves was 4.22% and the seven-day effective yield was 4.31%. The seven-day current yield represents net interest income generated by the Fund's investments for the past seven days and assumes income is generated each week over a 365-day period. The seven-day effective yield assumes reinvestment of the coupon (interest payments) and will typically be slightly higher than the current yield because of the compounding effect on investment returns.

The Fund was positively impacted by its focus on the short-term supply/demand dynamics of the U.S. Treasury bill and government agency market. The anticipation of increasing deficits led to higher yield levels and offered more attractive opportunities to extend the average maturity of the Fund. The Fund also maintained a sizeable percentage in agency floating rate securities, which contributed additional yield without additional maturity risk.

The Fund's past performance is not necessarily an indication of how the Fund will perform in the future.
