

Risk Management and Monitoring for CME ClearPort

CME Group has introduced CME Risk Monitor and Account Management Service to enable trader administrators to monitor CME ClearPort account credit usage and manage broker access; subject to clearing firm discretion.

- Monitor Limits and usage
- Add or Remove CME ClearPort broker firms
- Search for active and inactive accounts, and view specific account details.
- Search and View specific account credit control details
- Search and View account audit trail for all accounts including those pending activation

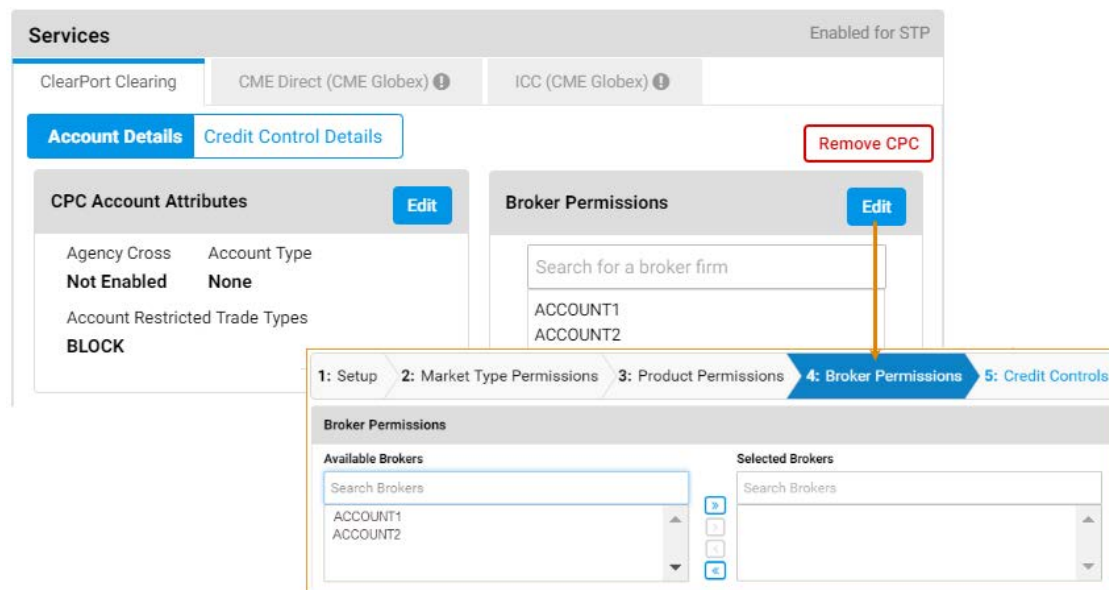

Monitor Account Usage: Using Risk Monitor, trader admins can view account limit usage.

The screenshot shows the 'Risk Monitoring' dashboard with a navigation bar (Dashboard, Audit, Alerts, Services) and three summary cards: 'Today's Account Activities', 'Threshold Alerts', and 'Rejected Trades - CPC'. The 'Account Usage' section is active, showing a gauge for 'ACCOUNT1' at 100.0% and a table of account details.

Account	Clearing Member	Account Owner	Limit Type	Product Name	Product Symbol	% of Limit Used	Limit Usage	Maximum Limit	Net Fills
ACCOUNT1	CLEARING1	FIRM1	Credit			100	1,000	1,000

Add or Remove Brokers: Using Account Management Service, trader admins manage broker access. A clearing firm risk administrator can restrict the trader admins ability to add / remove broker(s).

The screenshot shows the 'Services' page for 'ClearPort Clearing' with tabs for 'Account Details' and 'Credit Control Details'. The 'Broker Permissions' section is highlighted, showing a search for broker firms and a list of available brokers (ACCOUNT1, ACCOUNT2). A 'Remove CPC' button is also visible.

Futures trading is not suitable for all investors, and involves the risk of loss. Futures are a leveraged investment, and because only a percentage of a contract's value is required to trade, it is possible to lose more than the amount of money deposited for a futures position. Therefore, traders should only use funds that they can afford to lose without affecting their lifestyles. And only a portion of those funds should be devoted to any one trade because they cannot expect to profit on every trade.
