Best Practices

CME Group recognizes that certain business practices may be utilized when conducting customer business as well as Incentive Participant trading activities. The Best Practices were established to allow firms to utilize certain business practices (most not allowed in the past) which are generally prohibited. In order to do so, the Incentive Participant must clearly demonstrate to CME Group their application of these non-compliant practices is not inconsistent with CME Group's goal of providing preferential fees only for Incentive Participant trading activity. Such practices will be reviewed individually and in the aggregate in relation to the firm's entire trading activities and operation.

Review of such non-compliant practices will reflect the following key principles of CME Group's trading policies. First and foremost, the trading activity eligible for preferential fees must be conducted for the account and sole benefit of the Incentive Participant itself. The trading activity of individual customers/traders conducted in the name of the firm is not eligible for discounted fees to prevent the "selling" of Incentive Participant rates. Further, an Incentive Participant may only profit/benefit from the Incentive Participant trading activity through the performance of the trade and not from any other source such as a commission or charge for trade execution.

Non-compliance with the Best Practices below is generally prohibited as it is indicative of the selling of rates and/or profiting from sources other than the performance of the Incentive Participant trade.

As such, while the Best Practices are not absolutes as the Requirements are, any non-compliance with the Best Practices will be carefully reviewed with the burden of responsibility on the Incentive Participant to clearly support and demonstrate to CME Group's satisfaction that the trading is of the Incentive Participant itself. Under limited circumstances in reviewing the totality of the Incentive Participant's trading operations and the violative practice(s), CME Group may deem the Incentive Participant's trading activities in accordance with CME Group's policies for trading activity that is eligible for Incentive Participant fees.

If you do not comply with any of the following best practices, please check the box AND provide supporting documentation summarizing Incentive Participant's procedures relating to the indicated best practice.

The firm may not charge interest on debit balances to traders nor may it pay interest on credit balances to traders except where an options trading strategy is utilized in which interest on the premium is a key component of the overall profitability of the strategy.

The firm may not pay interest on capital contributions.

The firm may not charge a fee for capital usage to individual traders of the firm's accounts.

The firm may not charge a fee for the cost of capitalizing the firm (and thus the firm's trading accounts) to individual traders.

Individual owners and investing LLCs (as permitted) of an Incentive Participant may not have a specific interest in the profitability of an Incentive Participant account or group of accounts other than an Incentive Participant account that the individual owner or owners of the investing LLC trade or provide direct supervision/training to.

I represent that all current and future Incentive Participant trading activity of my organization receiving preferential exchange fee rates will conform to the requirements for such trading activity established by CME Group.

I attest that the above information is true and correct. I further acknowledge that confirming incorrect information may subject me to CME Group disciplinary action and/or penalties.
