CME Group Announces the Launch of Weekly Grain Options on May 23, 2011

CME Group announces that on Monday, May 23, 2011, weekly options will be added to the current line-up of standard and serial options on CBOT Corn, Soybeans, and Wheat futures.

Standard and serial options are currently listed on CBOT Corn, Soybeans, and Wheat futures. These options expire on the last Friday that proceeds by at least two business days the last business day of the month preceding the named option expiration month. Thus, these products currently experience one option expiration per month.

The addition of weekly options will complement the existing options complex by giving market participants increased trading flexibility in managing their existing option positions as well as increased trading opportunities due to the advantages offered by weekly options.

At launch, the following weekly options for corn, wheat and soybeans will be initially listed:

- May Week 4 options expiring on Friday, May 27;
- June Week 1 options expiring on Friday, June 3; and
- June Week 2 options expiring on Friday, June 10.

All of these weekly options will exercise into the corresponding July 2011 futures contracts.

Weekly grain options will have the same contract specifications – American-style exercise, strike price ranges, strike price increments, minimum option premium increments, daily and final settlement – as their related standard or serial options.

Weekly options will exercise into an underlying futures contract. If a weekly option expires prior to the nearby expiration date of the related standard option, then the weekly option will exercise into the nearby futures contract. If the weekly option expires after the nearby expiration date of the related standard option but before the expiration date of the nearby underlying futures, then it will exercise into the first-deferred futures contract.

The Exchange will list weekly grain options that expire each Friday, except for those Fridays where standard or serial options are scheduled to expire. In cases where Friday is a holiday, weekly options that would otherwise be scheduled to expire that Friday will expire on the preceding Exchange business day.

Three weekly options will be listed concurrently for each Corn, Soybeans, and Wheat futures product. Each weekly option will have about 28 days to expiration upon its initial listing date. The Exchange will list new weekly options, for expiration approximately 4 weeks hence, on the weekend following the latest expiration of weekly options. The Exchange will not list new weekly options for trading on the weekend following expiration of standard or serial options.

Attachments 1-6 summarize the rulebook changes that apply to the new weekly grain options.

CBOT Rulebook Chapter 10A. Options on Corn Futures Rule 10A01. OPTIONS CHARACTERISTICS

10A01.I. Termination of Trading

~~[Subject to the provisions of Rule 10A01.D., no trades in Corn futures options expiring in the current month shall be made after the close of the open outcry trading session for the corresponding Corn futures contract on the last Friday which precedes by at least two business days, the last business day of the month preceding the option month. If such Friday is not a business day, the last day of trading shall be the business day prior to such Friday.]~~

10A01.I.1. Standard and Serial Options

The last day of trading in any standard or serial option for expiry in a given month shall be the last Friday which precedes by at least two business days the last business day of the calendar month preceding such option's named expiry month. If such Friday is not a business day, then the last day of trading in such option shall be the business day prior to such Friday.

On their last day of trading, expiring standard or serial options shall cease trading at the close of the open outcry trading session for the corresponding Corn futures contract, subject to the provisions of Rule 10A01.D.

10A01.I.2. Weekly Options

Any weekly option shall be designated to expire on a given Friday, provided however that no weekly option shall be designated to expire on any Friday that is also the last day of trading in a standard or serial option (Rule 10A01.I.1.). Trading in any weekly option shall terminate on the Friday on which such option is designated to expire. If such Friday is not a business day, then trading in weekly options designated for expiration on such Friday shall terminate on the business day prior to such Friday.

On their last day of trading, expiring weekly options shall cease trading at the close of the open outcry trading session for the corresponding Corn futures contract, subject to the provisions of Rule 10A01.D.

10A01.I.3. Trading in Underlying Futures

In the event that the underlying futures market does not open on a day scheduled for option expiration, such option expiration shall occur on the next day on which the underlying futures market opens for trading.

Chapter 10A. Options on Corn Futures

Rule 10A01. OPTIONS CHARACTERISTICS

10A01.E. Exercise Prices

Trading shall be conducted for put and call options with striking prices in integral multiples of five (5) cents and ten (10) cents per bushel per Corn futures contract as follows:

a. At the commencement of trading for each option contract, the Exchange shall list a strike closest to the previous day's settlement price of the underlying Corn futures contract (the at-the-money strike), and strikes in integral multiples of ten cents in a range of 50 percent above and below the at-the-money strike. If the previous day's settlement price is midway between two strikes, the at-the-money strike shall be the larger of the two.

b. Over time, new ten cent strikes will be added to ensure that all strikes within 50 percent of the previous day's settlement price in the underlying futures contract are listed.

a. At the commencement of trading for weekly options, and for options that are traded in months in which Corn futures are not traded, and for standard option months the business day they become the third listed month, the Exchange shall list a strike closest to the previous day's settlement price of the underlying Corn futures contract (the at-the-money strike), and strikes in integral multiples of five cents in a range of 25 percent above and below the at-the-money strike. If the previous day's settlement price is midway between two strikes, the at-the-money strike shall be the larger of the two. For example, five-cent strike price intervals for the September contract would be added on the first business day after the expiration of the July options contract.

b. Over time, new five-cent strike prices will be added to ensure that all strikes within 25 percent of the previous day's settlement price in the underlying futures are listed.

3. All strikes will be listed prior to the opening of trading on the following business day. Upon demand and at the discretion of the Exchange, new out-of-current-range strike prices at regularly defined intervals may be added for trading on as soon as possible basis. The Exchange may modify the procedures for the introduction of strikes as it deems appropriate in order to respond to market conditions. As new 5 and 10 cent strikes are added, existing strikes outside the newly determined strike ranges without open interest may be de-listed.
